LAST OF THE WINERIES — This stone structure, rebuilt after the 1906 earthquake still stands on a hill a few blocks south of downtown Woodside. It was the winery of the La Questa Vineyards which continued to produce wine on a small scale until 1945 when the vineyard sold for subdivision.

SM County Once Had Big Vineyards

A person driving north on Canada Rd. from the center of Woodside to the foot of lower Crystal Springs Lake would hardly guess that 40 years ago the area was filled with vineyards, extending across the valley and up to the tops of the hills.

The only remnants of those vast vineyards are a few acres of grape vines just north of Woodside on the site of the La Questa winery — now a subdivision with new homes scattered about the vineyard and surrounded by uncared for vines.

Although San Mateo County was never a major wine producing area, the growing of grapes and making of wine was an important industry in the county in the period ranging roughly from 1870-1915. It is a matter of record that in 1889 there were nearly 800 acres of commercial vineyards, most of them in Woodside-Searsville area, in San Mateo County. The figure possibly passed the 1000 acre mark by the turn of the century, although there are no statistics available to prove it.

The industry has all but disappeared. The La Questa winery shut its doors for good in 1945; it was the last producing winery in the county. At present there are only a few small commercial vineyards left here, totaling a mere 39 acres, according to the county agricultural commissioner's office.

The wine industry in San Mateo County had an auspicious start since the first vineyards planted in Northern California, excepting the mission vineyards, were set out here by Count Agoston Haraszthy, a Hungarian nobleman who is considered the father of California viticulture.

Haraszthy, who among other things was the founder of Sauk City, Wis., came to California for his health in 1849. He settled in San Diego where he planted a number of vineyards. A few years later he moved to San Mateo County, buying land in what is now the Crystal Springs Lake area. There is some question as to the exact year that Count Haraszthy settled here.

Mildred Brooke Hoover, in her book, "Historic Spots in California" states, "In the vicinity of Crystal Springs an early planting of wine grapes (other than the mission variety) was made by Count Agostan Haraszthy in 1852, when he set out a half dozen varieties imported from Europe . . . After a sufficient test of his 30-acre vineyard had proved that the fruit would not ripen properly at this location, he sold his property and removed the vines to Sonoma County."

The Kohler Manuscript states that in 1853 "Colonel Haraszthy covered with school warrants his Crystal Springs property in San Mateo County which adjoins the reservoir of the Spring Valley Water Works. Here he laid out immediately a large number of vines that were imported by him from the East and from Europe. It was (in) his importation of vines that the first Zinfandel grape vines reached California."

At any rate in 1857 Haraszthy acquired land in Sonoma County and planted vineyards which in a few years totaled 85,000 vines and a nursery of 460,000 vines. In 1861 he sold his 60 acre estate in San Mateo County to a San Francisco jeweler for $60 an acre, a price that would make a present day real estate man's eyes glisten.

REMODELED WINERY — This building standing at the edge of a redwood grove is the original winery-storehouse of Dr. R. O. Tripp and is one of the oldest buildings in Woodside. It is located at the rear of Tripp's Woodside Store on Kings Mt. Rd. and was recently remodeled into a guest house.

Subsequently, Count Haraszthy traveled to Europe and brought back 100,000 cuttings of 1400 grape varieties which he planted all over the state. Haraszthy is termed by Harold J. Grossman, the wine authority, as the "Johnny Appleseed" of the California wine industry.

Who it was that next planted a vineyard in San Mateo County, after Haraszthy, is difficult to determine. It probably was Dr. R. O. Tripp, whose Woodside Store, now a historical landmark, was the first building in Woodside.

Tom Coates, 83-year-old native of Woodside, reports that Tripp had a small vineyard near the Woodside Store as far back as he can recall. Coates was born in 1866 and worked for many of the wineries in his younger days.

Dr. Tripp only maintained a small vineyard, listed in 1889 as being 5½ acres, and made small quantities of wine to sell in his store. The combination winery and storehouse building at the rear of the store is still standing and was recently remodeled into a guest house by Brooke Halsey, who operates a men's clothing store in Redwood City. Halsey is a member of an early Woodside family related to the Rixfords who owned the La Questa winery.

According to Coates, the first of the large vineyards was planted by J. A. Hooper in the early 1870s on his estate near Searsville Lake. The vineyard was small at first but was later enlarged to about 30 acres. The ruins of the old winery are still standing at the edge of the remaining portion of the original vineyard. Seven acres are still kept up by the Hoopers and the grapes sold commercially.

Most of the other vineyards in the Woodside-Searsville area were set out between 1875 and 1885.

Mildred Brooke Hoover, in her book already quoted, states that Domenico Grosso, a native of Genoa, Italy, planted grape vines within the old Corte Madera grant, probably between 1870 and 1875. "That he produced his own wine is indicated by an observation that he honored occasional visitors 'by bringing out wine and small bread cakes'."

A San Francisco attorney, Edgar Preston, planted vines on what is now the Schilling estate on Portola Rd. near Searsville. Dr. Frank Stanger of the San Mateo County Historical Assn., states in one of his books on county history that Preston used the estate to experiment in raising new varieties of grapes, although several old timers claim that the vineyard was planted mostly with zinfandel vines. The winery itself was located on the north side of Old La Honda Rd., just west of the Portola Rd. intersection. Coats worked as a carpenter on the building and commented that the standard wage of a carpenter in those days was $2 a day. He said that Chinese coolies were brought to clear brush from the mountainside before the vineyard was planted.

The Preston vineyard was ill-fated and was wiped out by Phylloxera before the turn of the century. After the Schillings bought the property, the winery was remodeled for other purposes, but has since burned down.

Largest vineyard in the Canada Rd. area was that of Sickert and Billings, Coates, who worked at the winery for a time, recalls that white wine and red wine was produced, much of which was shipped to Santa Cruz County to another winery owned by Billings, the Ben Lomond Wine Co., where it was aged, fined and bottled.

The Sickert and Billings winery was located on the west side of Canada Rd. in the area now spotted with olive trees.

Farthest north of the Canada Rd. vineyards was that of C. Scalmanini, later known as the Capella Winery. Scalmanini's winery, many oldtimers remember, was a large brick building, built against the side of a hill on the west side of the road. It was torn down after the Spring Valley Co. took over the property.

Though not the largest, the La Questa Winery was the most famous of the San Mateo County wineries. The vineyard was set

Lack of Cheap Fresh Water Causes Loss of Supply Plant

Lack of a large enough supply of cheap fresh water apparently has cost Redwood City the installation of a large surgical supply plant in its industrial tract.

Representatives of Johnson and Johnson, a surgical and first aid supply firm, have contacted the city chamber of commerce relative to renting a plant in this city, but so far the city has been unable to meet the water and sewage requirements.

Despite efforts of city officials, a real estate agent has told City Mgr. E. A. Rolison that he believes the firm will install its plant at another city in the state, one with a larger supply of cheap water.

Rolison said that firm representatives told him they would need 1,000,000 gallons of water daily delivered to their door for use in a cotton washing process.

The city manager and his assistants spent a weekend working up reports for the firm which showed

That 1,000,000 gallons of Hetch Hetchy water would cost Johnson and Johnson $4900 a month, despite the city's furnishing the water practically at cost and despite the fact that Redwood City rates are less than those in surrounding communities.

That 1,000,000 gallons of water in the sewage mains would take up approximately a quarter of the city's new sewage disposal plant's capacity. Industrial users of the plant are charged a lower sewage rate than residents, industrial rates being based on the percentage of the plant capacity used. In the J&J case, that would amount to $1200 a month at present rates.

Rolison made two suggestions to the representatives concerning methods of beating that cost.

He suggested that they get a permit to dump their water sewage directly into the bay, pointing out that they could probably get a permit from the state to do this because such water would not contaminate bay waters.

In that case, the sewage bill would be avoided.

Then Rolison suggested that the firm use city owned water wells which have been abandoned in favor of Hetch Hetchy drinking water. The wells were abandoned because the water table was sinking and there was a slight salt content. Rolison said he didn't know if that content would hurt the J&J process.

In any event the table is now rising and possibly the water contains less salt than before.

Possibly what the firm seeks is a city with a fresh water river from which it could take clean water and dump sewage without cost.

Redwood City's water costs are higher than those would be because the Hetch Hetchy water is brought hundreds of miles from the High Sierra and then sold by the City and County of San Francisco to Redwood City which in turn sells it to consumers.

La Honda Group Opens Drive To Erect Sunday School

Members of the La Honda Canyon Church Committee will open a drive to raise funds for a Sunday school in the La Honda area with the showing of the motion picture "King of Kings" Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Redwood Bowl, Cuesta La Honda.

The committee is undertaking a movement to raise funds for a Sunday school for the youth of La Honda.

The film will be shown, free of charge, and it is hoped residents will "give what they will," towards the fund, according to John McWilliams, chairman of the committee sponsoring the drive.

McWilliams said this is the initial move to raise funds for the building.

"There is a definite need for a Sunday school in this area," McWilliams said. "We have never had a real Sunday school building in La Honda and we hope to raise enough money to erect a permanent building for the children."

Heretofore, the chairman explained, Sunday meetings have been held in an old cabin, "unsuited for the purpose, especially in the wintertime."

The committee hopes to raise funds to erect a rustic type of building, in keeping with the style of architecture of the community. The Sunday school classes will be nondenominational in character and for every child in the area.

McWilliams said he was in hopes that those who could not attend the movies Sunday would mail their contributions to the Church Building Fund, La Honda Canyon Church Committee, La Honda.

Peninsula Food Prices Climb

Peninsulans are now paying four and a half times as much for meat and fish as they did in the base year of 1939, according to this year's survey of food prices, issued today by Dr. J. Murray Luck of the Stanford chemistry department.

The all-over cost of living has almost tripled since 1939, the report indicates.

Dr. Luck, who began the studies in 1939, is assisted by Barbara Davey. Each year, they have priced the components of a so-called "liberal" diet—liberal from the nutritional point of view but not a luxury diet. It is a well-balanced diet in terms of vitamin and caloric content.

Here is the list, based on the weekly food requirements of an adult man engaged in moderate physical activity:

Bread, 1 pound; oatmeal, ½ pound; cornmeal, ½ pound; sugar, 1.2 lbs.; milk, 3½ quarts; cheese, ¾ pound; butter, ½ pound; eggs, 1 pound; lard, ¼ pound; bacon, ¼ pound; beef chuck roast, 2½ pounds; salmon, 1 pound; sweet potatoes, 1 pound; potatoes, 3 pounds; cabbage, 2 pounds; lettuce, ½ pound; carrots, 1 pound; beets, 1 pound; canned corn, ½ pound; oranges, 2 pounds; apples, 1 pound; bananas, 1 pound; dried prunes, ½ pound; canned peaches, ½ pound.

Housewives may detect a gleam of hope in the fact that the retail cost of this sample diet has dropped 10 per cent—from $6.81 in 1948 to $6.58 this year.

San Carlos Gets New Mail Service

Two mail deliveries a day began in San Carlos Monday, for every San Carlos home except the extreme outlying districts where delivery by truck is necessary.

"We now deliver to every house in San Carlos," Mrs. Mary K. Davis, postmaster, said today, "with two deliveries a day going out on regular schedule."

Things Were Hot For Young Tony

Tony Quintero, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Quintero, caused quite a bit of excitement Tuesday afternoon but was just a mite too scared by it all to fully savor the situation.

Redwood City firemen said that while playing with matches the youngster started an attic fire in a house his father is building at 527 Douglas St.

When firemen arrived at 5:27 p.m. the youngster was missing. Fearing he was overcome by smoke in the attic they donned their oxygen masks and there was considerable rushing around under the rafters before the youngster was finally found hiding in a downstairs closet.

There was slight damage, firemen reported, although they guessed that young Tony's pride was damaged slightly by what his father probably told the lad after the firemen left.

Since Douglas St. is half in the city and half in San Mateo County, both fire departments responded to the alarm.

Redwood City's department also put out a grass fire yesterday afternoon at 255 Poplar Ave.

Redwood Manor To Get Gutter Aid

Those gutters which flood part of Bay Rd. in Redwood Manor are going to be fixed soon, either by the contractor or by the county.

County Engineer M. A. Grant said today that he is writing a letter to the M. J. King Co., notifying it that if it does not fix the gutters, the couny will, at the contractor's expense.

Grant said that he is taking the action after conferring with the district attorney's office.

The subdivision lies south of Redwood City, and the gutters on Bay Rd., opposite Taft School, were put in last year. Grant said that there is not enough fall in the gutters, and as a result part of the street floods for three blocks when residents water their lawns or during the rainy season.

The county did not accept the job after it was completed last year, Grant explained. The M. J. King firm was notified to fix the gutters last year, and again this Spring, the county engineer declared, but nothing has been done.

Grant said that the county still is holding the contractor's bond, which is high enough to cover the cost of the work.

San Mateo Girl, 16, Drowns in Bathtub

Patricia Steffey, 16-year-old San Mateo schoolgirl, often felt she would have given her life to be able to take baths like other children.

Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steffey, 6 South Norfolk St. in the Shoreview section of San Mateo, had been a victim of epileptic seizures since she had been 7, when she fell out of a swing in a playground. Her parents had warned her never to take a tub bath unless one of them was around.

Wednesday, while both her parents were away working, Patricia sneaked into the bathtub.

And it cost her her life.

A few minutes after she had slipped away from her younger sisters, Ruth 13, and Shirley 12, gone into the house and climbed into the tub, the younger children found her in the tub, slumped over with her face under the water.

One of the girls pulled the plug while the other ran next door to the house of a neighbor, Mrs. James Batista. Mrs. Batista and her 16-year-old son, James, lifted Patricia from the tub and onto a bed, where the boy applied artificial respiration while his mother called the police. Efforts to revive her failed.

P. A. Youth Admits Peninsula Thefts

Several unsolved cases in Palo Alto Police Dept. files were cleared by a youth, who was arrested Saturday as he assertedly attempted to burglarize the Merner Lumber Co., Capt. Guy O. Wathen said today.

Murga, who lives at 2081 Palo Verde Ave., assertedly confessed yesterday to burglarizing several business establishments in other Peninsula communities during the past four years.

Besides the Merner job, Captain Wathen said today, Palo Alto cases confessed by Murga include a bicycle theft and vandalism. Murga assertedly confessed to knocking over a flagpole, damaging potted plants at private homes, and other mischief.

According to Captain Wathen, Murga also confessed stealing a $250 diamond ring last month from the home of John Reese, 856 Whiskey Hill Rd., Woodside. Reese advertised his loss. Meanwhile, Murga had given the ring to a girl friend in Redwood City. The girl saw Reese's advertisement and telephoned him. Satisfied that her engagement ring was Reese's property, she made Murga mail it back to the Woodside man.

Murga, who is in Palo Alto City Jail, will be held for authorities in Menlo Park, Atherton and Redwood City.

Two Pedestrians Hit Crossing El Camino, Motorist Not Held

A Belmont woman is dead and her husband is in critical condition in Community Hospital after they were struck by an automobile as they were crossing El Camino Real near the South Harbor Blvd. Sunday at 10:20 p.m.

Dead is Mrs. Alphonse Stevens Gornik, about 50, who lived at 1000 Old County Rd.

Her husband's condition was described as improved by officials at Community Hospital. Belmont police said Gornik, 57, suffered fractures of both legs, a broken arm, broken ribs and a possible punctured lung.

Mr. and Mrs. Gornik were struck by a car driven by Harry E. Palmer, 30, of Alma. Palmer told Belmont police he was going south on the highway when he saw the pair in the middle of the street.

Witnesses said the Gorniks apparently were crossing the street from the southwest corner of Harbor Blvd. and were not walking in the cross walk. Palmer said he did not see the couple in time to avoid the accident.

He was not held.

The car struck the Gorniks headon and came to a stop 20 feet south of the point of impact. Mrs. Gornik's body was sprawled in the slow, south bound lane and her husband was flung in the fast lane.

She was pronounced dead when county ambulance crews arrived at the scene of the accident.

Gornik was taken to the county hospital and attendants said he is not expected to live.

It was the first fatal accident in Belmont in the past 2½ years, according to Belmont police records.

The Gorniks had moved to their apartment about a week and a half ago from San Francisco.

According to papers on his body, Gornik was an ex-navy chief commissiary steward and had lived in Texas for some years. He had been a wig maker for the Max Factor Co. in Hollywood and had lived at the Amour Arms, an apartment hotel in the Hollywood Dist.

He and his wife had then moved to San Francisco at 157 Ellis St.

Police said the pair had planned to open a music studio in Belmont and had moved from their San Francisco apartment.

Mrs. Gornik's only known relative is her mother, Mrs. Thomas F. Shaw Sr., of Austin Tex.

Police said Gornik was apparently an invalid. A cane, found at the scene of the accident, was thought to have belonged to him.

Woodside To Get Post Office

Invitations to bid on contracts for a new post office in Woodside were issued today by the post office department in Redwood City.

Robert E. O'Connell, Redwood City postmaster, said the call for bids culminated a study by postal inspectors of the need for additional postal facilities in the Woodside area.

A move to establish a post office in Woodside has been under consideration for some time by residents of the area.

Post office officials have made the recommendation that a rural contract finance station would best serve the needs of the community. This means the post office would be located in an existing building in Woodside.

The station would be designated as the Woodside station but would be listed in the postal records as a rural station of Redwood City.

Delivery of mail to residents of the Woodside area would continue from the Redwood City post office since no change in existing rural routes is contemplated, O'Connell said.

Postage stamps and other stamped paper would be available to the public as would money orders, postal notes, registry and parcel post service.

This service was previously handled by the rural mail carrier.

Postal officials indicated the proposed station would be located in the vicinity of Woodside Rd. between Whiskey Hill and Mountain Home Rds.

The invitation to bidders has been posted at the Woodside Fire Dept. and the Woodside Library and further information may be obtained from the post office in Redwood City.

All bids must be in the hands of the postmaster, Redwood City, not later than 5 p.m. July 22, O'Connell declared.

Frazier Trial Continued a Week

The Frazier murder trial was continued one week Tuesday by Superior Judge Andrew R. Schottky after the attorney for Kermit Owen Frazier notified the court he could not appear today.

Kenyon C. Keller, attorney associated with George T. Davis, told Judge Schottky that Davis was engaged in a federal court income tax case which is expected to wind up this week.

However, Keller said that if the tax case is not over, a continuance beyond next Tuesday will be sought.

Dist. Atty. Louis B. Dematteis told Judge Schottky that the prosecution was ready and anxious to proceed with the case. Judge Schottky replied that he also wanted to start the trial, but could do nothing if the defense attorney is tied up.

Frazier, 34-year-old Oakland credit man, appeared in court and in a clear voice said that he agreed to the continuance. He was pale, having lost his tan during the four months he has spent in the county jail awaiting trial.

Kupidlowski New Jaycee Officer

Kupidlowski replaces Donald Stanwood who resigned because he has been transferred to Fort Bragg.

The group honored Erma S. Flores and P. C. Kirk of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2310 and auxiliary for their effort in cooperating with the junior chamber in its recent "Operation Iron Lung."

Irving Gold, chairman of the iron lung committee, reported that the lung has been delivered to Community Hospital for use there until the Sequoia Dist. Hospital is ready.

The group also discussed plans for a family picnic next month, and a fishing trip later in July. Pres. John Stegeman presided.

State Park Group May By-Pass Butano Talk

SACRAMENTO (WNS) — The question of state acquisition of Butano Forest will not be discussed at the next meeting of the State Park Commission scheduled for July 22 in Los Angeles.

A. E. Henning, chief of the division of beaches and parks, said the commission has not received a request to place the matter on the agenda.

He conceded however that the Butano matter is back in the lap of the State Park Commission following the last minute adoption by the legislature of a resolution calling upon the park commission to take steps to save the Butano redwood forest from destruction.

The resolution was proposed by Assemblyman Richard Dolwig of South San Francisco following the defeat in the senate finance committee of a measure which would have authorized the state to buy the 4711-acre forest with money from the state park fund.

Dolwig's resolution was coauthored by assemblymen from all the Bay Area counties and supported by the senators from those counties in the upper chamber.

Henning said the legislative action came too late to place the matter on the commission's agenda for this month.

"I doubt whether anything will happen at the next meeting because the commission has a very full agenda scheduled," Henning said. "However, it is possible that it will be considered at the following meeting which will be held in San Francisco in August."

He said he was not in a position to say what the commission will decide to do about Butano.

The resolution calls for the acceptance by the park commission of the Santa Clara-San Mateo Counties' offer to give the state the Santa Clara County Mt. Madonna Park and the San Mateo County Memorial Park in lieu of matching money required by the commission for park acquisitions.

The total purchase cost of Butano has been estimated at $1,200,000. The State Park Commission has allocated $600,000 for that purpose. Prior to the passage of the Dolwig resolution the park commission refused to abandon its matching fund policy which requires that an equal amount be raised by local governments or private interests.

GILROY ROUNDUP — They start them young in Gilroy. Here are two of the Gymkhana city's best horsegals, Carol Milias, 13, left, and Adele Parks, 8, who are both practicing up on their saddle-lore for the forthcoming Gilroy Roundup and Gymkhana, slated for Sunday. Both girls and their favorite mounts have been active in Gymkhana parading and competition since they first rode in the saddles with their fathers as real young tykes.

Chiang Kai-Shek Declares War Only Solution to Reds

CANTON, China (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek declared tonight that "War is the only solution to China's Communist problem" and that he would continue to fight until final victory.

The Chinese Nationalist leader's statement followed a declaration by Premier Yen Hsi-shan that the Nationalists never again would talk peace with the Reds, but would wage a "win-all-lose-all" fight.

Chiang, who retired as president last January but who still is top man on the Nationalist side, called on the people to rally.

The generalissimo said, "Today the Communists are threatening South China, and I feel very much ashamed of myself." (This is customary Chinese self-depreciation.)

He vowed, however, to "keep up the fight for independence of the nation and freedom of the people" and urged those in South China to rise as one man and fight to final victory.

Premier, Yen, at his press conference, described the Reds as "aggressors serving as the vanguard of other aggressors"—considered here as an indirect reference to Russia.

CIO Transport Workers' Union Calls Strike Against 21 New York Bus Lines

NEW YORK (AP)—CIO transit workers struck suddenly today against all 21 lines of the New York City Omnibus Corp. The lines carry an estimated 925,000 passengers daily.

The walkout was called by the CIO Transport Workers' Union, eight hours after 350 maintenance workers quit work at one of the company garages in protest against the dismissal of four employes.

The company termed the initial walkout unauthorized but the big union quickly announced that it would support the strike.

At the same time, Michael J. Quill, president of TWU, said that the stoppage would be extended to the Fifth Avenue Coach Corp. at midnight tonight if the dispute with the Omnibus Corp. is not settled by then.

The two companies have joint ownerships. The Fifth Avenue line hauls some 200,000 daily riders.

Edmund C. Collins, vice president of the company, said that the four dismissed employes "were not discharged but were laid off because of economic conditions."

Ex-Communist Says Robeson Wants to Be 'Black Stalin'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Negro ex-Communist said today that singer Paul Robeson wants to "become a black Stalin" among Negroes.

The former Communist, Manning Johnson, said Robeson was a party member for many years, and that he engaged in "highly secret and confidential" work for the party.

Johnson told the House Un-American Acivities Committee he left the party in 1940 after 10 years' membership. He named Robeson as a member assigned to work among artists and intellectuals "and middle class groups the party was trying to penetrate."

The singer has "developed a complex," with "delusions of grandeur and power," Johnson added, and aspires to "become a black Stalin" among Negroes.

Johnson said the Communist party is encouraging Robeson's delusions "because they can use them." As a great artist, Johnson explained, Robeson can impress other artists and intellectuals.

"It is regrettable indeed that such an able man has sold himself to Moscow," Johnson said.

Johnson, called to testify in the committee's current investigation of Communist infiltration into Negro organizations, lives in New York. He said he is a former district organizer for the party in Buffalo, N. Y., and later was a member of the party's national committee for three years.

"There is not one iota of doubt about Robeson's membership," Johnson declared.

There Is a Time To Cut Hay

DAVIS (AP)—The best time for cutting vetch and oats for hay has been determined by Profs. B. A. Madson and L. G. Jones on the Davis campus of the University of California.

Vetch is best for hay when cut in full bloom. Oats makes good hay if cut when the grain is in the soft-dough stage.

SM County Once Had Big Wine Industry

out in the 1880s by Emmett H. Rixford who imported the vines from Europe. The cabernet made at the winery was nationally known and some was even shipped abroad.

Unlike most of the other wineries, La Questa bottled most of its wines. The others, for the most part, sold in bulk—by the barrel or "jug" or sold to wine firms in San Francisco and elsewhere. Oldtimers say that often 10 or 15-year old wine could be bought in Woodside for as cheap as $2 for 10 gallons.

La Questa continued to operate until prohibition and was the only winery in the county to survive the dry era, although its post-prohibition life was short. After repeal it was reopened by two of Rixford's sons, Halsey and Allen Rixford, and operated on a small scale until the vineyard was sold in 1945.

The stone winery on the property is still standing. It was built of stones dug up in the fields when the vineyard was laid out, and was built over after the 1906 earthquake knocked it down.

Several other smaller vineyards and wineries were located on Canada Rd. as well as in other parts of the Woodside and Portola valleys, but there is hardly space to describe each one.

A good picture of the extent of the wine industry can be gained from statistics in the Directory of Vineyardists in California, published by the government printing office in Washington in 1890, and listing all the commercial vineyards in California in 1889. The total commercial acreage in San Mateo County is listed at 788½ acres.

Among the listings are:

Searsville—J. A. Hooper, 30 acres; S. L. Jones, 100 acres; E. F. Preston, 80 acres.

The wine industry was not confined to the Woodside-Searsville area for John T. Doyle of Menlo Park is listed with 36 acres, and Gustave Mahe of San Mateo, 55 acres.

Mahe, a San Francisco financier, was the owner of one of several vineyards in the San Mateo area, all of which have since been obliterated by residential developments.

There was a number of factors responsible for the virtual disappearance of the wide industry from the county. The first was Phylloxera, the insect disease, which raised havoc with vineyards all over California prior to 1900. Phylloxera is believed to have been native to the eastern part of the United States, and was carried to Europe in the 19th Century where it wiped out most of the grape vines on the continent before means were found to combat it. The disease was apparently brought to California in cuttings from Europe around 1870 and soon spread all over the state.

Many vineyards in the county were damaged by the disease and some, like Preston's, destroyed.

The Spring Valley Water Co. put most of the vineyards on Canada Rd. out of business in 1908 when it closed all its land in the water shed area to commercial farming. The vineyards were abandoned and the farmhouses and wineries either dismantled by their owners or torn and burned down by the water company.

The vines continued to grow wild, but most of them have since died out. Woodside Fire Chief John Volpiano comments that as a boy he would occasionally go into the abandoned fields to pick wild grapes and blackberries. The grapes, he says, were very small but very sweet, and to get them, worth braving the rattlesnakes which now infest the area.

Prohibition, of course, was executioner to the failing industry, and the wine business never recovered from that final blow. Although the county agricultural commissioner's office reports there is much land in the county capable of producing high grade grapes, any revival of the industry is highly improbable because of the suburbanization of the county and resultant high cost of land.

As already stated, 39 acres of commercial vineyard still remain, most of them in Woodside, but few in Atherton and Menlo Park.

Alcoholic Treatment Farm Would Have to Pay Its Way

If San Mateo County is to have an alcoholic treatment farm, it should be a paying proposition, members of the county alcoholism committee said this week.

The committee held its second meeting since its organization in San Mateo Municipal Court, but because of absence of most of the members, adjourned to 3 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 9.

Judge J. A. Branson, committee chairman, moved to postpone the session "because of lack of attendance due to vacations," after reading of the minutes of the first meeting, held June 21, and informal discussion of need for a prison farm to segregate alcoholics for rehabilitation.

Present for yesterday's meeting were Branson, Elinor Falvey, representing the district attorney's office; Milton Minehan, representing the sheriff's office; Don Helbush, representing the probation office; and Fred Dutton, committee secretary.

Absent were Police Chief Robert E. O'Brien of San Mateo, assistant chairman; Sheriff James J. McGrath; Edward I. McAuliffe, judge of the third township justice court, Redwood City; Clyde Ogden, superintendent of the Sequoia Union High School Dist.; Dr. Thomas E. Farthing of San Mateo, president of the county medical society; Dr. Harold D. Chope, county health director; and John S. Cowgill, county probation officer.

Helbush cited the "tremen-

School Cost Rise Shown in Survey

Skyrocketing public school costs show plainly in the increases in expenditures per pupil in the larger elementary schools in San Mateo County, when current costs for 1947-48 and 1946-47 are compared, California Taxpayers' Assn. said today, making public its study of costs to school districts in California.

Current spending per pupil in attendance for the Burlingame district went from $144.43 for 1946-47 to $223.12 for 1947-48; for Jefferson, $109.07 to $134.63; Menlo Park, $109.94 to $159.94; Millbrae, $137.94 to 140.09; Ravenswood, $123.29 to $146.29; Redwood City, $109.38 to $136.73; San Bruno, $104.53 to $145.71; San Carlos, $120.28 to $156.22; San Mateo, $123.19 to $153.46; South San Francisco, $145.26 to $141.42.

Data for 1947-48 are the latest available, the association said. School appropriation and school tax levies for 1948-49 generally in California, were higher than for either 1947-48 or 1946-47. The study by the taxpayers' organization included all elementary school districts in California with more than 450 pupils in average daily attendance.

Three RC Teachers To Attend Confab

Three Redwood City teachers will be among teachers of English from all over the Bay Area who will meet at Stanford University next week to attend a conference on subject matter taught in English classes.

Jessie Maria Hockinson, F. G. Hutchinson and Dorothea Kauffman, of Redwood City and C. W. Rossier of Atherton will be among those attending the conferences which will open July 19.

Sponsored by the university's department of English and the school of education, the conference will concentrate on subject matter taught by English teachers, rather than on teaching methods.

The program will include talks by Stanford faculty members on such subjects as Shakespeare, UNESCO, contemporary drama, the Arthurian legends and current romantic poets.

RC Painter Injured In 25-Foot Fall

Edward Schoenitzer, 59, 257 Roble Ave., Redwood City, a painter, was injured early Monday when he fell 25 feet from a ladder.

Schoenitzer fell to the driveway of a home at 1400 San Carlos Ave., San Carlos, at 8:55 a.m. today as he was taking down screens in preparation to painting the house.

He slipped from the ladder and fell, landing on his back.

He was taken to Community Hospital where his condition was described as "fair" pending X-rays of his back.

Test Public Inspection Rights

BY EARL G. WATERS

SACRAMENTO (WNS) — The public's right to inspect vital records maintained by the state is the subject of the next meeting of the State Board of Health slated for tomorrow in San Francisco.

The state board is toying with the idea of shutting off public access to these records.

Whether the board, through the adoption of a regulation, can close these records which have from time immemorial been open to all who desire to inspect them is a question which may eventually be determined by the courts.

Meanwhile, the state board is depending upon a favorable opinion from the state's attorney general to "legalize" its contemplated action.

The records are maintained by the public at the public's expense in the interest of the public as a whole.

Through some oversight of these facts the board of health has channeled its thinking into lines which lead to the conclusion that vital records are "privileged records" and "cannot by any stretch of the imagination be considered to be transactions of public records."

Vital records have been kept for centuries and the public's interest in births, deaths and marriages is testified to by the prominence these notices have always been given in every newspaper.

Yet, in a summary of its proposal to close these records to only those persons "who can demonstrate a direct, tangible and legitimate interest" the board surmises that only those who have a personal or property right, a government agency, or those who are pursuing statistical or medical research, have a "legitimate interest."

The regulation appears to be sought chiefly by state employees within the department of public health and some local health officers and registrars who express "annoyance" at "requests for searches" of vital records. There is some support for the regulation from well intentioned persons and groups who seek to protect from the public eye records invólving unwed mothers, illegitimate children and adaptions, as well as equally well-meaning persons who desire to protect mothers who have suffered the loss of a newborn child from the circular advertising manufacturers of baby products sent to all new mothers.

The falseness of these premises is self-evident. In adoption cases there is a legal method for protecting the individuals concerned. In the matter of unwed mothers and illegitimate children the information compiled on the records need not be such as to bring out the embarassing facts.

Actually this is the course which is suggested by one of the groups upon which the proponents of the regulation are leaning for support to close the vital records. Mrs. Herbert W. Richards, chairman of the San Francisco Community Chest, recognizes the right of anyone to inspect the vital records and simply suggests certain changes so as to delete items "which are of a technical or personal nature and which have no particular bearing on the verification of the individual's birth date and place of birth."

As for the claim that the use of records by "commercial interests" to solicit business is an "improper use" of public records a circular was sent to a selected list of new mothers asking their views. The results could have only been embarassing to those who seek to close the records since 75 per cent of the returns indicated the advertising was welcomed.

The result notwithstanding the regulation is still being sought.

Bay Area Doubles Industrial Production In Dollar Values Over Eight-Year Period

The San Francisco-Oakland metropolitan Bay Area has nearly doubled its industrial production in dollar values added by manufacturers over the eight year period between 1939 and 1947, according to a Bay Area Council study issued today.

The 1947 value of the Bay Area economy added by manufacturers totals $1,048.500.000, which is 187% greater than the $365,900,000 evaluation for 1939. The figures are from the important U.S. yardstick for industrial growth, a preliminary census of manufacturers made by the U.S. Department of Commerce for 1947, and released this month in Washington, D.C.

Manufacturing employment census in 1939. The San Francisco-Oakland metropolitan area gain of production workers (69.9% exactly) was more than 17% above the national average (52.68) for the 1939-47 period.

The number of Bay Area manufacturing establishments increased 5.3% over the 1939-47 period, rising to a total of 3668 in the latter year. The Bay Area has also moved upward from eleventh to tenth ranking position as a U.S. manufacturing center under the preliminary federal census study. It should be pointed out that the preliminary 1947 census excluded bakeries, machine shops and other manufacturing classifications which were counted in the 1939 census.

Grocery Store Owner Claims He Was Kidnaped, Robbed

A Lomita Park grocery store owner reported to the sheriff's office that he was kidnapped Sunday and robbed of $150.

Harold Smith, 105 De Soto Ave., San Bruno, claimed that two Negroes forced him to drive to Santa Cruz and locked him in a barn.

According to the report he made to the sheriff's office yesterday evening, he was going home from his store at 500 El Camino Real, Lomita Park, Sunday when two men jumped into his car as it stopped at a red light.

The men forced him to drive back to the grocery store, and took $50 from the cash register, Smith claimed. He said they then ordered him back into the car and forced him to drive to Santa Cruz.

Before leaving the store, Smith said, the men made him write a note stating "overworked, cracked up." The note was propped on the cash register.

Smith said he was locked in a barn near Santa Cruz by the men after they took $100 from him. He freed himself Monday evening, he claimed, walked about a half mile and found his car.

The sheriff's office stated that Smith was vague, and could not remember the name of the town near Santa Cruz, nor could he describe where the barn is.

Givens Ray Sentenced To Prison

Givens Arnold Ray was on his way back to San Quentin this week, to start his second two-to-20-year term for arson.

Ray, 34-year-old Daly City grocery clerk, was sentenced to the state prison Monday afternoon by Superior Judge Edmund Scott.

Ray had pleaded guilty to setting afire the Kings Market in Daly City on May 25, resulting in a $500,000 loss. He claimed that he got the idea of burning down the market during a four-day drunk after he had been fired from his job.

John K. Weeks, Ray's attorney, told the judge that the fire resulted from Ray's drinking. He also said that lack of psychiatric treatment when Ray last was in San Quentin was partly to blame.

"Those were pretty expensive drinks," Judge Scott declared.

Weeks said he wouldn't think of suggesting that his client be allowed to make restitution.

"I wouldn't think so," Judge Scott returned.

In a statement to probation officers, Ray stated that he was angered because he was fired from his $65-dollar-a-week job because he was too slow.

Three San Mateo youths charged with attempted robbery and with assault with intent to commit robbery pleaded not guilty before Superior Judge Andrew R. Schottky. Their trial tentatively was set for Aug. 16.

The youths are Leland E. Rogers, former county deputy probation officer who was discharged after aiding some of his charges to escape, Lawrence K. Peace and George T. Lawrence.

SC Chase Ends In Driver Arrest

San Carlos police arrested a San Francisco man on charges of drunken driving after a 65-mile-an-hour chase up El Camino Real and through the city of San Carlos early Sunday morning.

Guy J. Rollins, 31, a painter, was held on the drunk driving charge while his companion, Floyd Hayworth, 45, San Francisco, also a painter, was held for being drunk in or about an automobile.

Officers said they spotted Rollin's car at 6:20 a.m. yesterday as it was going up El Camino Real. The officers gave chase and Rollins turned west on Holly St., up Laurel St. and then left on Walnut St. where officers finally forced him to the curb.

He was booked and bail set at $250 cash or $500 bond. Hayworth's bail was set at $25 cash or $50 bond.
